

REMEMBER: Music was used for many different things in the Middle Ages, including dancing, jousting, and spreading news.

These instruments that look like “umbrella handles,” are called crumhorns. The bigger ones have a lower sound, while the smaller ones have a higher sound.

MULTIPLE CHOICE:

Recorders, crumhorns, shawms and sackbuts are all types of medieval

- games                      foods                      instruments                      dances

Another word for a family of instruments in the Middle Ages is a

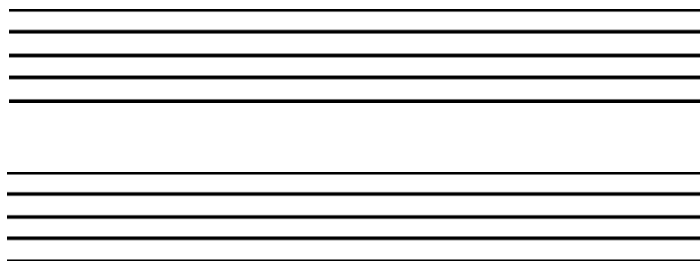

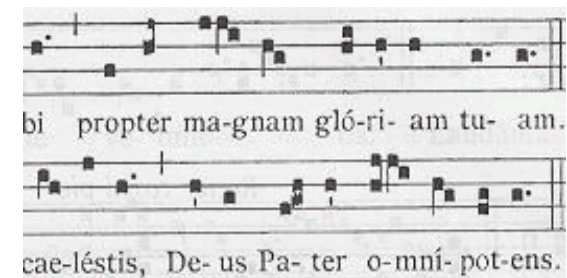

- continue                      consort                      cocoa                      constant

Ancient trombones were called

- sackbuts                      old horns                      big bones                      tubabones

EXTRA CREDIT: NOTE READING SKILLS

You’ve already learned how to draw quarter notes, half notes, and whole notes. Just for fun, try drawing some notes the way they were written in the Middle Ages! Can you think of some differences between old and modern notation? _____

This program was made possible by generous support from New Mexico Arts, a Division of the Office of Cultural Affairs, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

